Growing your own marijuana has many amazing advantages. I hope that by going through this Grow Report you will gain a better understanding of just what it takes. That way, you can decide whether or not growing cannabis is right for you. Hi! My name is Ryan Riley, and I have been teaching patients in need how to grow their own medical-grade marijuana supply in the safety and comfort of their very own homes for many many years now. Quite a few of my students are eager to get started growing their own, but they have all sorts of questions and concerns before they begin such an exciting endeavor. I plan to answer a lot of similar questions probably running through your head right now.

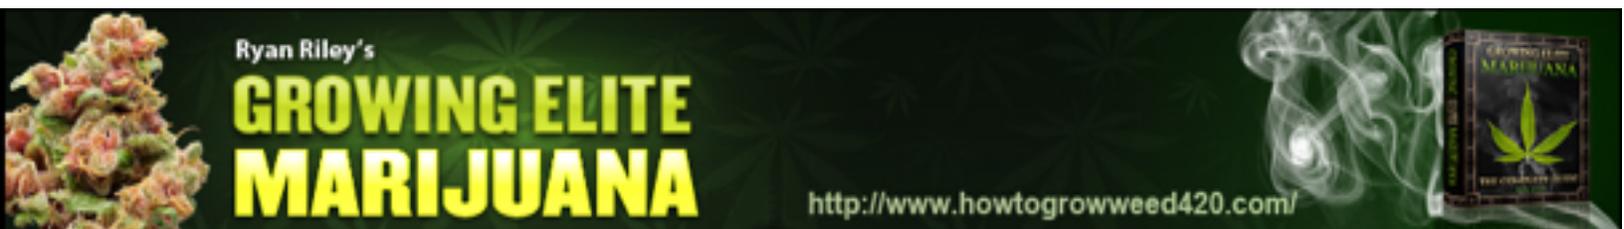

In my experience I have seen time & time again the same questions asked over and over by first-time aspiring marijuana growers. Hopefully I will be able to answer most, if not ALL of these questions by the time we complete this guide together.

Growing your own wicked bud has to be one of the most enriching, deeply rewarding, satisfying, and exciting experiences Mother Nature has to offer you. If you're anything like me, you're very curious about getting started and want to know some more before you decide on what to do.

But before you make a decision on what type of growing is right for you (if any!) please go through this Grow Report so you have a better overall understanding and can see how growing your own killer herb can affect your life in the most positive way.

So let's begin shall we?

Onto the questions!

Is it Expensive?

One of the questions I'm commonly asked by my students is whether or not diving head first into a ganja growing career is going to end up costing them a fortune.

The simple answer is NO!

Growing your own HIGHly potent cannabis may seem like you need to spend hundreds, if not thousands of dollars on expensive grow equipment, but now thanks to modern technology this is simply just not the case.

With a little ingenuity and the right leverage, you can produce ounces and ounces of the finest quality cannabis using only pennies on the dollar each and every month! Many growers commonly report they are BLOWN AWAY by just how much top-shelf bud they are able to produce each month and how much cash they find building up in their now bulging pockets. You'd be surprised just how much money you can save by learning to grow your own herb supply – it really is worth the small lifetime investment.

Plus, being able to smoke any (or ALL) of the greatest & most exotic strains on planet Earth has to be one of the greatest feelings... EVER. Also being the talk of the town, the one who's got ahold of some of the finest and rarest strains around, doesn't hurt too bad either. ;)

Being able to smoke as much as you want, whenever you want is a true feeling of ecstatic freedom that I wish to share with as many people as I possibly can through teaching and my website over the internet.

Is it Hard?

The next big concern I get most often is somewhere along the lines of "Is growing your own herb super difficult?" "Is it confusing?" "Is it HARD?"

Many newbie growers picture growing their own killer nug supply in the comfort and privacy of their own homes to be some sort of incredibly demanding and difficult insurmountable task, involving complex chemical combinations, intense daily precise care riddled with constant maintenance, & various other difficult and frustrating nightmares / mumbo jumbo that is simply just not the case.

I'll let you in on a little secret the "grow pros" that supply all the vendors with the best, ultra-expensive buds DON'T WANT YOU TO KNOW:

Growing lots and lots of your own top quality marijuana is not only EASY but it's also extremely FUN!

That's right. Growing your own killer herb is not only EASY, it's a blast!

Shhhhh. You didn't hear it from me. ;)

Unfortunately, a lot of dealers would be out of business if everyone found this little secret out. No one would be having to fork over "top shelf" prices at the dispensaries for their "top shelf" buds if they have a FREE unlimited supply of some rare high quality herb growing in their very own bedroom closet.

Over the years I have taught hundreds and hundreds of eager students the art of cultivating some of the world's finest herb known to man, and each and every one of them couldn't help but smile from ear to ear during the entire process. Some go so far as to even say after their first dank & heavy sparkling harvest; "OMG I never thought it would be this easy!"

... So, then why do so many potential 420 growers flee in terror from the mere thought of cultivating their own potent bud supply?

Ryan Riley's

GROWING ELITE
MARIJUANA

<http://www.howtogrowweed420.com/>

It all starts with the learning materials.

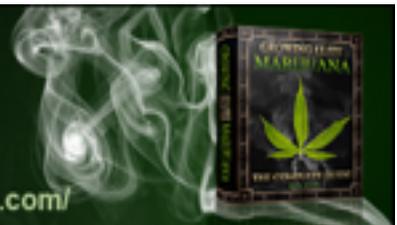

For years, various grow bibles have come out that seem to be 'the end all be all' of cannabis cultivation. These have been recommended by many seasoned growers, and everybody seems to be reading them; but only a handful of growers seem to be actually LEARNING from them with a great success (aka producing the high quality buds to show for it.)

Ryan Riley's

GROWING ELITE
MARIJUANA

<http://www.howtogrowweed420.com/>

Part of the reason I have seen so many eager first time growers get confused, frustrated, and give up is due to the lack of proper guiding materials tailored specifically for the first time grower, as well as also containing more advanced marijuana growing tips, tricks, and techniques to take their buds to the next level IF THEY SO CHOOSE TO.

You see, there are two types of cannabis cultivation resources out there available to aspiring marijuana growers today. The first is the critically acclaimed "Grow Bibles" that delve deep into the depths of various aspects of cannabis cultivation. These bibles are packed full of useful information of course, but there is a common reported problem amongst growers who seek council from these grow bibles.

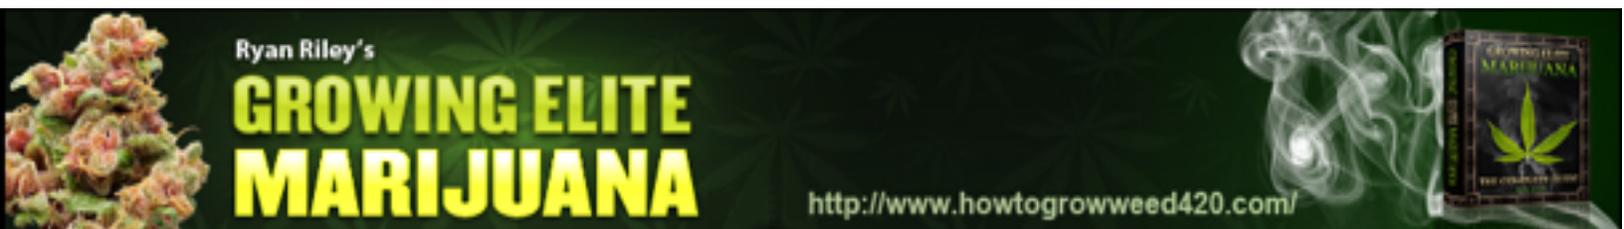

The single most common complaint I have seen time and time again in all my years of teaching is that these 'Grow Bibles' are extremely technical and thick, and read much like boring college textbooks designed for a lengthy course in Botany or Biological Plant Science. Most marijuana growers tell me that they "want to grow some quality dank, not study boring and complex bio-chemical plant diagrams." .. These "Grow Bibles" are a dense resource that can be very useful if you know how to use and apply them, but most new excited growers will pick one up only to become severely stressed and/or disappointed and ultimately end up with a disastrous failed first grow attempt(s), wasting their precious time, energy, and money. Sadly, I have seen this happen time and time again to many of the 420 students who come to me for help. This is where the all-too-common myth "growing your own bud is hard!" comes into play.

It's a lot like trying to learn math for the first time.

Imagine if you came to me and I handed you a book about math, but, on the very first page you would be presented with an Algebra 2 formula. "Here, solve this.", I say.

"But," you respond, "I don't know what these numbers mean!!"

Learning how to grow your own killer marijuana from one of these 'Grow Bibles' is a lot like trying to learn math exactly like this.

In order to get good at math, you have to first learn the basics, in this case what exactly numbers are. I would take out two paper clips, throw them down on the desk, and teach you how to count. After that we would go into addition and subtraction, then multiplication and division. Pretty soon algebra, geometry, algebra 2, trigonometry.

You get the point. Each level builds upon the next. You master the basics first, and THEN you move on.

These cannabis 'Grow Bibles' are packed full of weed growing information, but they lack a step-by-step hands on approach specifically designed for the beginner in mind. They spew a bunch of unorganized grow information at you in hopes that you will grasp it, or know where, when, and how to apply it.

The problem is, many first time growers looking to learn from these guides end up extremely stressed out, frustrated, and confused. After several failed grow attempts, many aspiring ganja growing apprentices resort to pulling out their hair and crying, feeling they wasted so much time, energy, and money on failed grow attempts. It is at this point in their cannabis career that they begin to complain to everyone around them how difficult growing your own bud is.

Growing marijuana isn't, and doesn't have to be like this!!!! This is why the very first criterion I stuck with when creating the Growing Elite Marijuana system was that it had to be 100% "stoner-friendly". Designed for the regular, everyday average person like you or me – not a scientist in a lab coat. It had to be easy to follow along and understand, but it also had to go into tremendous depth so it could potentially answer virtually everything a marijuana grower would ever encounter over the entire lifetime of their cannabis career. So, learning from these intimidating Grow Bibles is a lot like picking up the proverbial Algebra 2 book. You want to learn math, and that book is a great resource sure, but the problem is when first learning it will feel way too complicated & confusing and leave you ultimately frustrated and in the dark. Many end up even giving up their dreams of having their own awesome bud-producing private marijuana garden right from the get-go; not being able to reap the incredible rewards growing their own unlimited private supply of frosty & sticky buds has to offer.

Ryan Riley's

GROWING ELITE
MARIJUANA

<http://www.howtogrowweed420.com/>

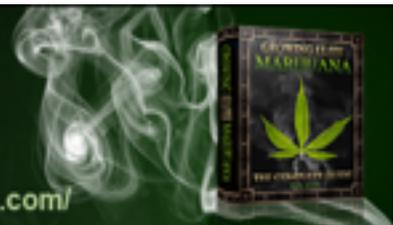

This defines 95% of all grow resources available today. Think of them like complex unorganized 420 grow encyclopedias. The information is mostly there, but it leaves readers in the dark and confused rather than easily and effortlessly growing their own INCREDIBLE strains while having a blast throughout the process... and FAST! My theory (and lifelong mission) is that it shouldn't take you 20 years of learning in order to produce an incredible crop. Leave the mistakes to the people who already invested years and years of their life, including thousands of hours of time and money, to learn WHAT WORKS and what doesn't... leave those mistakes to people who already did all the hard work.. people like me. :) Over my 18+ year career (and growing!) in cannabis cultivation, I've spent 10's of thousands of dollars [and hours] on finding out what works for producing some of the best tasting, incredible smelling, and divinely potent cannabis the world has ever known... FAST! No hassles, stress, confusion, failed germinated seeds, blown up bulbs, moldy ruined equipment, incorrect plant feeding... all the nightmares and HORRORS a first-time grower has had to go through in the past. I've dedicated my entire life to creating a system so clear concise and EASY that an 84-year-old grandmother knowing absolutely nothing about growing, plants or cannabis, can pick up my ebook, and within a few hours of sitting down and reading can be well on her way to growing some of the most incredible tasty nugs she has ever had the joy of smoking... from the first grow and on!

Ryan Riley's

GROWING ELITE
MARIJUANA

<http://www.howtogrowweed420.com/>

The next selection of cannabis cultivation resources currently available to the general public are the more “newbie”-tailored grow guides, designed for the first time grower. These are great, they offer step-by-step instructions and clear concise pictures & illustrations so you know exactly what you're doing. Problem is, sooner or later the “newbie” grower isn't going to be so “new” anymore. You can now grow your very own first plant sure, but now you're itching to try out some more advanced grow techniques to produce unbelievable buds that deliver that sensational stoned feeling or an eye-popping sparkling & sticky heavy harvest yield. This is where these “newbie” guides fall short, most maxing out around 120 pages or less. Once the grower gets up and riding on the bike with confidence, he or she wishes to take off the training wheels to get some real speed and then start having fun – but they can't. They're limited due to the shallow coverage of these beginner grow manuals.

Most growers have told me they end up having to own 20 (or more!) books covering various aspects. Not only is this expensive, but it's also an extremely time-consuming process. Imagine wanting to find out something and having to flip through 3 or 4 books just to get the full answer. Or worse, finding out that you don't even own what you were looking for and have to purchase YET ANOTHER grow guide.

This is one of the most commonly reported first-time grower stresses, and is a very large part of the reason I took it upon myself to embark on a lifelong mission to promote Cannabis awareness to those who need their very potent healing green herb the most who weren't willing to go through the stress of having to learn from all these complex and difficult to digest grow books.

My #1 goal was to create a system that was so easy, even 84-year old grandmothers could grow her own top-shelf high quality medicinal-grade marijuana supply over and over again. And they have!!

I wanted it to be an entire system. Complete, in every sense of the word. To serve as a literal one-stop shop for ganja growing success. The ULTIMATE go-to grow guide, encompassing virtually ALL aspects of incredible marijuana cultivation. Meaning, it is a 420 Grow Guide that not only holds your hand right from the start and teaches you all the basics in the most easy to follow along

(and SEE) manner, but it also will lead you down the more advanced paths of cannabis cultivation in the same user-friendly, step-by-step, fully illustrated manner, whenever you're ready for it.

The more advanced techniques that deliver mind-blowing buds are presented in the same easy to follow fashion specifically tailored for the first time grower in mind throughout the entire 748 page guide. If you want to know more, you can check it out here: Chapter-By-Chapter Breakdown of Growing Elite Marijuana.

I also made it so that the more experienced and seasoned veteran growers could pick it up and instantly be blown away by the depth and incredible wealth of resources packed full of advanced tips, tricks, and techniques that will make any cannabis aficionado's heart sing. Old time growers who have been on the scene for over 25 years email me all the time telling me how excited they are and how many new tricks they have learned.

So, unlike the common myth floating around out there nowadays, growing lots and lots your own top-shelf herb is EXTREMELY EASY if you have the right resources. One that not only holds your hand in the crude beginnings, but is also always there waiting for you to explore it's more advanced tips & techniques, whenever you're ready to take your buds to the next level.

Does Growing Take Up A Lot of Space?

Many growers want to begin growing for dreams of producing a heavy & potent sparkling harvest yield, and are convinced that they will be needing an entire dedicated grow room to serve this very purpose.

The good news is, you can grow LOTS and LOTS of bud in a very-limited space. Dedicated grow rooms are great, but they are not always necessary. Every grower's needs are different, but if you're one of those who feel they wont be able to enjoy lots and lots of high quality herb each month because you are limited to growing in a small cabinet or old drawer – think again!

Ryan Riley's

GROWING ELITE
MARIJUANA

<http://www.howtogrowweed420.com/>

Will it Take Up A Lot of Time?

Genetic cannabis breeders have been hard at work over many many years creating some of the best indoor/outdoor strains of cannabis known to man. Certain types of cannabis variety (strains) such as Sativas and Indicas tend to bloom faster due to their natural location in some parts of the world where the day/night lighting and flowering (harvest time) cycles differ. In plain English, this means over many years cannabis breeders have gotten together to weed out some of the undesirable qualities (e.g. painfully slow flowering/budding times, cruddy short-lasting stone, awful taste, tiny harvest weight, etc etc) in order to breed new never before seen varieties of Cannabis (available in seeds) that are not only specifically genetically modified to be an incredible sensational stone, an unreal deep dank smell, a taste that is nothing short of divine, a MASSIVE yield, but they also flower FAST! It really depends on the strain you choose, but you can expect to pump out ounces of some high quality mind-blowing cannabis in as little as 1 month or up to 3, depending on the seeds you choose.

Men and women have sweat blood and tears to bring what is easily available at the fingertips of any aspiring marijuana grower today.

It is truly the Golden Age for the wannabe elite ganja grower.

To learn all about the various strains, their effects, and pretty much everything you will ever want or ever need to know, please refer to the appropriate seed selection section in Growing Elite Marijuana, The Complete Guide.

Will I Get Caught?

A lot of growers wish to keep their ganja garden private, safe and secure, completely undetectable from discovery. In today's day & age this is not only entirely possible, but also extremely easy. Many 420 companies recognize the demand and importance for stealthy growing in today's uncertain times – and that is why various very inexpensive products have been created specifically for this purpose. From stealth grow cases, boxes, (even mock-computer chasis!), cabinets, etc, all the way to odor neutralizing gels.. growing 100% undetected in today's modern technologically advanced society has never been easier.

Growing your own herb has never truly been more safe, or more fun!

Ask any grower with a little experience... there is only ONE main reason why anyone will ever get caught growing. In all my years of hearing various stories from friends, the single most common denominator of any grower ever getting caught was one thing and one thing only: they couldn't keep their mouth shut.

Growing your own divine buds is probably one of the most exciting things you will experience in your life. ESPECIALLY your first grow. Just watching that little seed turn into a full blooming beautiful lady shimmering with glistening THC crystals is enough to make any green-lover squirm.. and the first time you smoke some of that quality home grown herb.. that is an experience you will never forget. I wont ruin it for you ;). Let me just say that the bud you will be producing is NOTHING like that store bought rush-processed crap.

Marijuana grown with tender care and love in a controlled environment is of out-of-this-world quality. You will be wondering what you have been missing all these years!!! Many report it's like smoking weed for the first time. The first thing you are going to want to do is share these killer buds with everyone you know... but that's a big mistake. At first. When you're not careful with who you let in on your newfound hobby, it can fall right onto the wrong pair of ears.

So if you can keep your mouth shut, you're practically guaranteed to never get caught.

Ryan Riley's

How Much Bud Will I Produce?

The next big question I get time and time again is somewhere along the lines of "how much bud will I be producing?" It's a simple question but not a definitive single-figure answer can be given. It really is up to the individual. Many first-time growers think that just because they don't have large space (such as a dedicated grow room) that they can't enjoy MASSIVE bud yield each month, but that is simply not the case!

Ryan Riley's

GROWING ELITE
MARIJUANA

<http://www.howtogrowweed420.com/>

Thanks to modern-day talented growers, incredible grow techniques have been developed for those growers with severe space limitations. In a small confined grow space such as a cabinet or old dresser, a Sea of Green technique can be utilized (covered in extreme depth in Growing Elite Marijuana in the Growing Techniques section) in order to produce LOTS and LOTS of buds in a tiny area (known as a "Green Factory"). First-time growers can confidently expect an average of 1.5 ounces per plant when utilizing a Sea of Green grow technique.

Depending on the size of the grow cabinet/area, when utilizing a densely packed grow method such as Sea of Green, growers can expect to fit in around 15-20 plants in a very small confined space. 22.5-30 ounces (~2lbs) of Divine Quality bud each and every month doesn't sound too shabby eh? If a tiny cabinet can pump out that much bud for you each month, imagine what a closet, or even an entire dedicated grow room can do for you... $_$

That's only the beginning. Outdoor yields can be up to 10x as much PER PLANT! (For more information on growing marijuana outdoors, please check out the Growing Outdoors Chapter in Growing Elite Marijuana. Outdoor harvest yield as well as choosing the right type of strain is all covered in exhaustive detail.)

Some growers even laugh at the above "small" figures. Utilizing various other growing techniques (all included inside the main book) many amazing things can be accomplished when it comes time for harvest with the goal of getting some massively impressive output yield.

Note: A "grow technique" may sound complicated or confusing, but it is as simple as cutting the plant in a very specific way to make it grow for a very specific purpose, in this case maximizing for a densely packed growing location.

It is also very important to realize at the end of the day, yield is equally contingent on a number of important grow factors; light, temperature, humidity, water, nutrients, CO2/ventilation, genetics, etc. The type of seed, and the type of environment that seed is subjected to will ultimately determine your end harvest yield weight.

Rest assured, many first-time growers are not only very happy with their first-time harvest yield, they're ecstatic.
